Story by Ian Thorley Photography by Tom Blesch Fashion by Leonie Volk

PRADA IS A NAME SYNONYMOUS with vibrancy and innovation. A label that rules through reification, producing collections that are interrogative and outward looking, consistently drawing on the wider fields of art, music, film and literature as a source of inspiration. To understand the roots of the Milanese fashion empire, one has to look at a crystallising moment that changed the fashion landscape. In 1984, Miuccia Prada released her lightweight, two-pocket 'Vela' backpack, made of tough 'Pocone' nylon noted for its thin weave and lightweight waterproof qualities. The material was a subtle homage to her grandfather, Mario Prada, who founded the brand 1913 as a purveyor of luxury bags, accessories and travel trunks. He used the military spec black material to make coverings for steamer trunks - essentially, they were unprepossessing, imperishable dust bags. Miuccia elevated the material's rank from industrialised reinforcement to synthetic luxury. Minimalist and durable as hell, the elegantly styled backpack was an instant hit. Its price tag matched those seen on leather versions made by competing luxury brands, but that didn't stop shoppers from queuing outside Prada boutiques in Milan and Rome eager to get their hands on one.

The backpack was a breakthrough that set the tone for a decade of revolutionary launches for the brand. In 1995, Prada released its first men's collection, an idea that was spearheaded by a young Neil Barrett. The Brit's designs were monochrome, utilitarian and sleek. John Malkovich fronted the original FW'95 Prada menswear campaign; Tim Roth and William Dafoe were to follow swiftly in his footsteps. These were formidable actors known for their gritty, realistic roles. As such Prada menswear became a beacon of pragmatic, unfussy style, one that epitomised the 'thinking man's' choice. Two years later, the Italian fashion house gave us Prada Sport, a sub-label that further explored the ties between utilitarianism, fashion and sportswear.

Riffing off the success of Prada menswear, Prada Sport was arguably the first high fashion line to promote techwear as an aspirational and luxury uniform. It identified with the era's new, career-hungry generation, who were also embracing sportswear thanks to the rise of hip hop, Brit pop, rave culture and even grunge. Somewhat paradoxically, '90s fashion was flash and ostentatious too with logo mania (also helped along by hip hop) reaching a peak on catwalks. Prada Sport bucked the trend with its single thin red stripe, a striking but simple logo that ran across pockets and down jacket fronts, zips and sleeves. Like a 'stamped in' festival bracelet, the red tab alluded to a sense of belonging, a luxury club open to all who could afford it. It could be seen from afar but it didn't shriek its provenance - in a nutshell, it was nothing short of iconic, which is why the Prada Sport name was rechristened Prada Linea Rossa [Red Line].

In terms of fabrics too, Linea Rossa men's and womenswear was at the forefront of innovation. Garments were tailored and even futuristic-looking thanks to clean, uncomplicated silhouettes. Designs were pocketed, pull-on and functional, and often made of Gore-Tex and nylon, high performance materials that could withstand severe weather conditions, even if they were destined for metropolitan wear. To say that Prada Sport influenced today's athleisure trend is an understatement: it was the very fountainhead of this versatile sportswear movement that has since permeated both high street and luxury fashion markets. Like all radical, boundary-pushing designs, the Linea Rossa set a precedent, though by the same token, its star faded as competition in luxury techwear increased. As a result, the line was discontinued in the mid-Noughties as Prada focused on fusing the Linea Rossa's sporty aesthetic into its mainline collections.

Today, with so many scientific advances in textile manufacturing, Prada is reclaiming the luxury techwear territory it helped to establish with the relaunch of the Linea Rossa line, this time more 'high spec' than anything you could have expected.

The thin red line is now made of latex and is heat sealed into the garment through a cut window, a highly specialised process that is telling of the level of detail that has gone into this new collection of future classics which is entirely unisex. Indeed, the materials that make up this collection sound like they have been borrowed from industrial design or advanced watchmaking. For example, graphene, a substance derived from graphite, has been combined with recycled polyester to create light padding that helps to regulate body temperature; Goretex Pro, designed to be completely waterproof, ensures that garments are more weatherproof than ever, while Nylon 3L (so-called because it is made of three ultra-light, breathable layers) is highly resistant to abrasions and is considered to be the thinnest membrane in the world.

Once again, these high-tech materials prove that Prada is on the bleeding edge of fabric technology. More impressive, however, is the pioneering construction of the clothes: each Linea Rossa piece is assembled thanks to advanced heat sealing methods which makes them entirely seam-free. So while the crimson stripe remains the enduring emblem of the Linea Rossa line, Prada isn't drawing any red lines when it comes to innovation.

Эзра Миллер в Лондоне, 12 ноября

Ловим позитивную волну как стиль жизни от восходящей звезды американского кинематографа.

Эзра — один из тех актеров современного кинематографа, за эволюцией которого действительно стоит понаблюдать: как и Роберт Паттинсон в свое время, Миллер постепенно вырос из амплуа бунтующего подростка («Каждый день», «Что-то не так с Кевином», «Хорошо быть тихоней») и дорос до более серьезных звездных ролей («Госпожа Бовари», «Тюремный эксперимент в Стэнфорде», «Отряде самоубийц», «Флеш») и уже готов окончательно покорить нас своими сольными первоплановыми ролями. Последней работой Эзры стала роль обскура Криденса Бэрбуона в спин-оффе поттерианы «Фантастические твари и где они обитают», в которой также сыграли Колин Фаррелл, Эдди Редмэйн, Джон Войт, Зои Кравиц и многие другие звезды Голливуда. Кроме того, Эзра активно покоряет не только зрителей в кино, но и модных критиков: во время промо-тура нового фильма он появился в образе от Prada из новой весенне-летней коллекции 2019.

L'INVERNO CALDO DI JOE

Sette film in tre anni, e lo scorso maggio a Cannes il Premio Chopard come «miglior rivelazione»: a 27 anni il futuro di Joe Alwyn è decisamente promettente. D'altra parte, anche il suo passato non è male. Pronipote di un compositore, figlio di una psicoterapeuta e di un documentarista di guerra: arte e studio dei caratteri sono nel suo Dna. Dopo La favorita e Maria regina di Scozia, che usciranno in gennaio e sono entrambi perfetti per un giovane inglese amante della storia, lo vedremo in febbraio nel cast del molto atteso Boy Erased. In ogni caso, che lo scritturino da protagonista o per poche scene, l'importante - dice - è «essere onesto».

Chloe Grace Moretz In Prada – 21st SCAD Savannah Film Festival

Chloe Grace Moretz collected the 'Lumiere Award' during the 21st SCAD Savannah Film Festival on Friday (November 2) in Georgia.

Excuse me for sounding like a broken record, but this Prada Resort 2019 dress isn't working for me.

The '60s inspired looks she's been channeling for a while now is a cute idea in theory, but none of them are doing her any favours.

Take this dress for example. So unflattering, shortening, concealing and stumpyfying.

Hoje, vejo mais respeito”, avaliou Jameela, citando o movimento encabeçado por artistas de Hollywood contra o assédio sexual. “A primeira vez que sofri algo que definiria como assédio foi aos 17 anos. Um executivo de estúdio me apalçou. Fiquei tão envergonhada que não contei nem para a minha mãe”, recordou Mia.

“Não somos objetos de entreter o mundo. Nós somos vozes.”

Ícone de estilo, Jennifer Lopez (49) arrasou em conjunto de saia e blusa com recortes geométricos. “Estou tão orgulhosa de fazer parte dessa comunidade de artistas poderosas e pioneiras”, celebrou a estrela, com seu eleito, Alex Rodriguez (43). Dona do look mais sensual da noite, Sara Sampaio (27) endossou a causa feminista. “É uma honra estar ao lado de tantas mulheres inspiradoras, que lutam para que nós tenhamos espaço, voz e respeito”, falou a modelo portuguesa.

Das passarelas para a moda do dia a dia, as jaquetas foram destaque nas produções de Vanessa Hudgens (29) e Charlize Theron (43). “Temos de mudar a legislação para nos proteger e sinto que este é o momento mais forte para isso”, apontou Charlize, uma das laureadas da soirée, a bordo de saia plissada, botas e jaqueta vermelha. “Nunca fui muito ousada quando o tema é moda, prefiro peças clássicas”, explicou a atriz sul-africana. Looks ao melhor estilo divas de Hollywood também tiveram vez e foram as escolhas de Molly Sims (45), Sofia Carson (25) e Kate Beckinsale (45), que capricharam no brilho. “Cercada por todas essas mulheres, me senti humilde e empoderada. Hoje, um ponto ficou ainda mais claro: somos fortes”, disse Sofia, no elenco de Descendentes 3.

Em sua primeira aparição pública desde a morte do pai, John W. Bullock, que faleceu em setembro, aos 93 anos, Sandra Bullock (54) subiu ao palco para homenagear a amiga Sarah Paulson (43). “Eu ia escrever um discurso falando sobre todas as coisas que admiro na Sarah, mas como tem sido um mês muito difícil e ruim para mim, resolvi elencar o que não gosto nela!”, afirmou a estrela, que, na verdade, acabou

AMIZADE ITALIANA BACKSTAGE DA MODA

Se nas passarelas da Semana de Moda de Milão as tendências roubaram a cena, nos bastidores o que chamou atenção foram os grandes encontros. "É sempre uma alegria rever amigos", disse Spike Lee (61), entre Miuccia Prada (69) e Sofia Coppola (47).

MARIANA E LUCAS ROMANCE NO RIO

Celebrities Love...the Prada Sidonie Bag

Style darlings have a new bestie around; she's curvy, chic, and cool — and she goes by the name of 'Sidonie'. And, she's been spotted on the arms of none other than PYTs the likes of Rita, Hailee, Kaia, Yara, and Bella, among others.

That's probably because the Prada 'Sidonie' bag, fresh from the Resort 2019 collection, beautifully marries form and function with its harmonious lines, distinct flap closure, and leather handle that offers a versatile mood for any outfit (or occasion).

Rita Ora: Rita warmed up her winter street-style look with a sassy red 'Sidonie'.

Hailee Steinfeld: Meanwhile, Hailee went for head-to-toe Prada while in Bilbao, Spain for the MTV EMAs; the black bag was a sophisticated finish to her ditzzy-floral granny sweater and girly hot-pink chiffon.

Kaia Gerber: As for this young model on the rise, she went the way of the urban cowgirl with her 'Sidonie' and snakeskin boots.

By ROSS MCDONAGH FOR DAILYMAIL.COM PUBLISHED: 20:44 GMT, 21 November 2018

Pusha T was attacked on stage during his own concert — and he has an inkling who was responsible. The rapper claimed 'some na' paid thugs to throw beer and try rush the stage on Tuesday night, and fans are pretty certain he was referring to bitter rival Drake. Pusha escaped injury — but not a soaking — when he was forced to leave his show at Toronto's Nathan Phillips Square when the brawl broke out.
