Model and activist Akiima is dressed to be seen—and heard—in Miu Miu's modern, maximalist, and bedazzled take on the deb look. Draped necklace ($1,220), embellished velvet collar necklace ($650), crystal headband ($650), and dress, select Miu Miu stores. In this story: hair: Ward; makeup: Hannah Murray. Shot on location at Smashbox Studios. Details, see In This Issue.

Vanessa Kirby,
U.K.

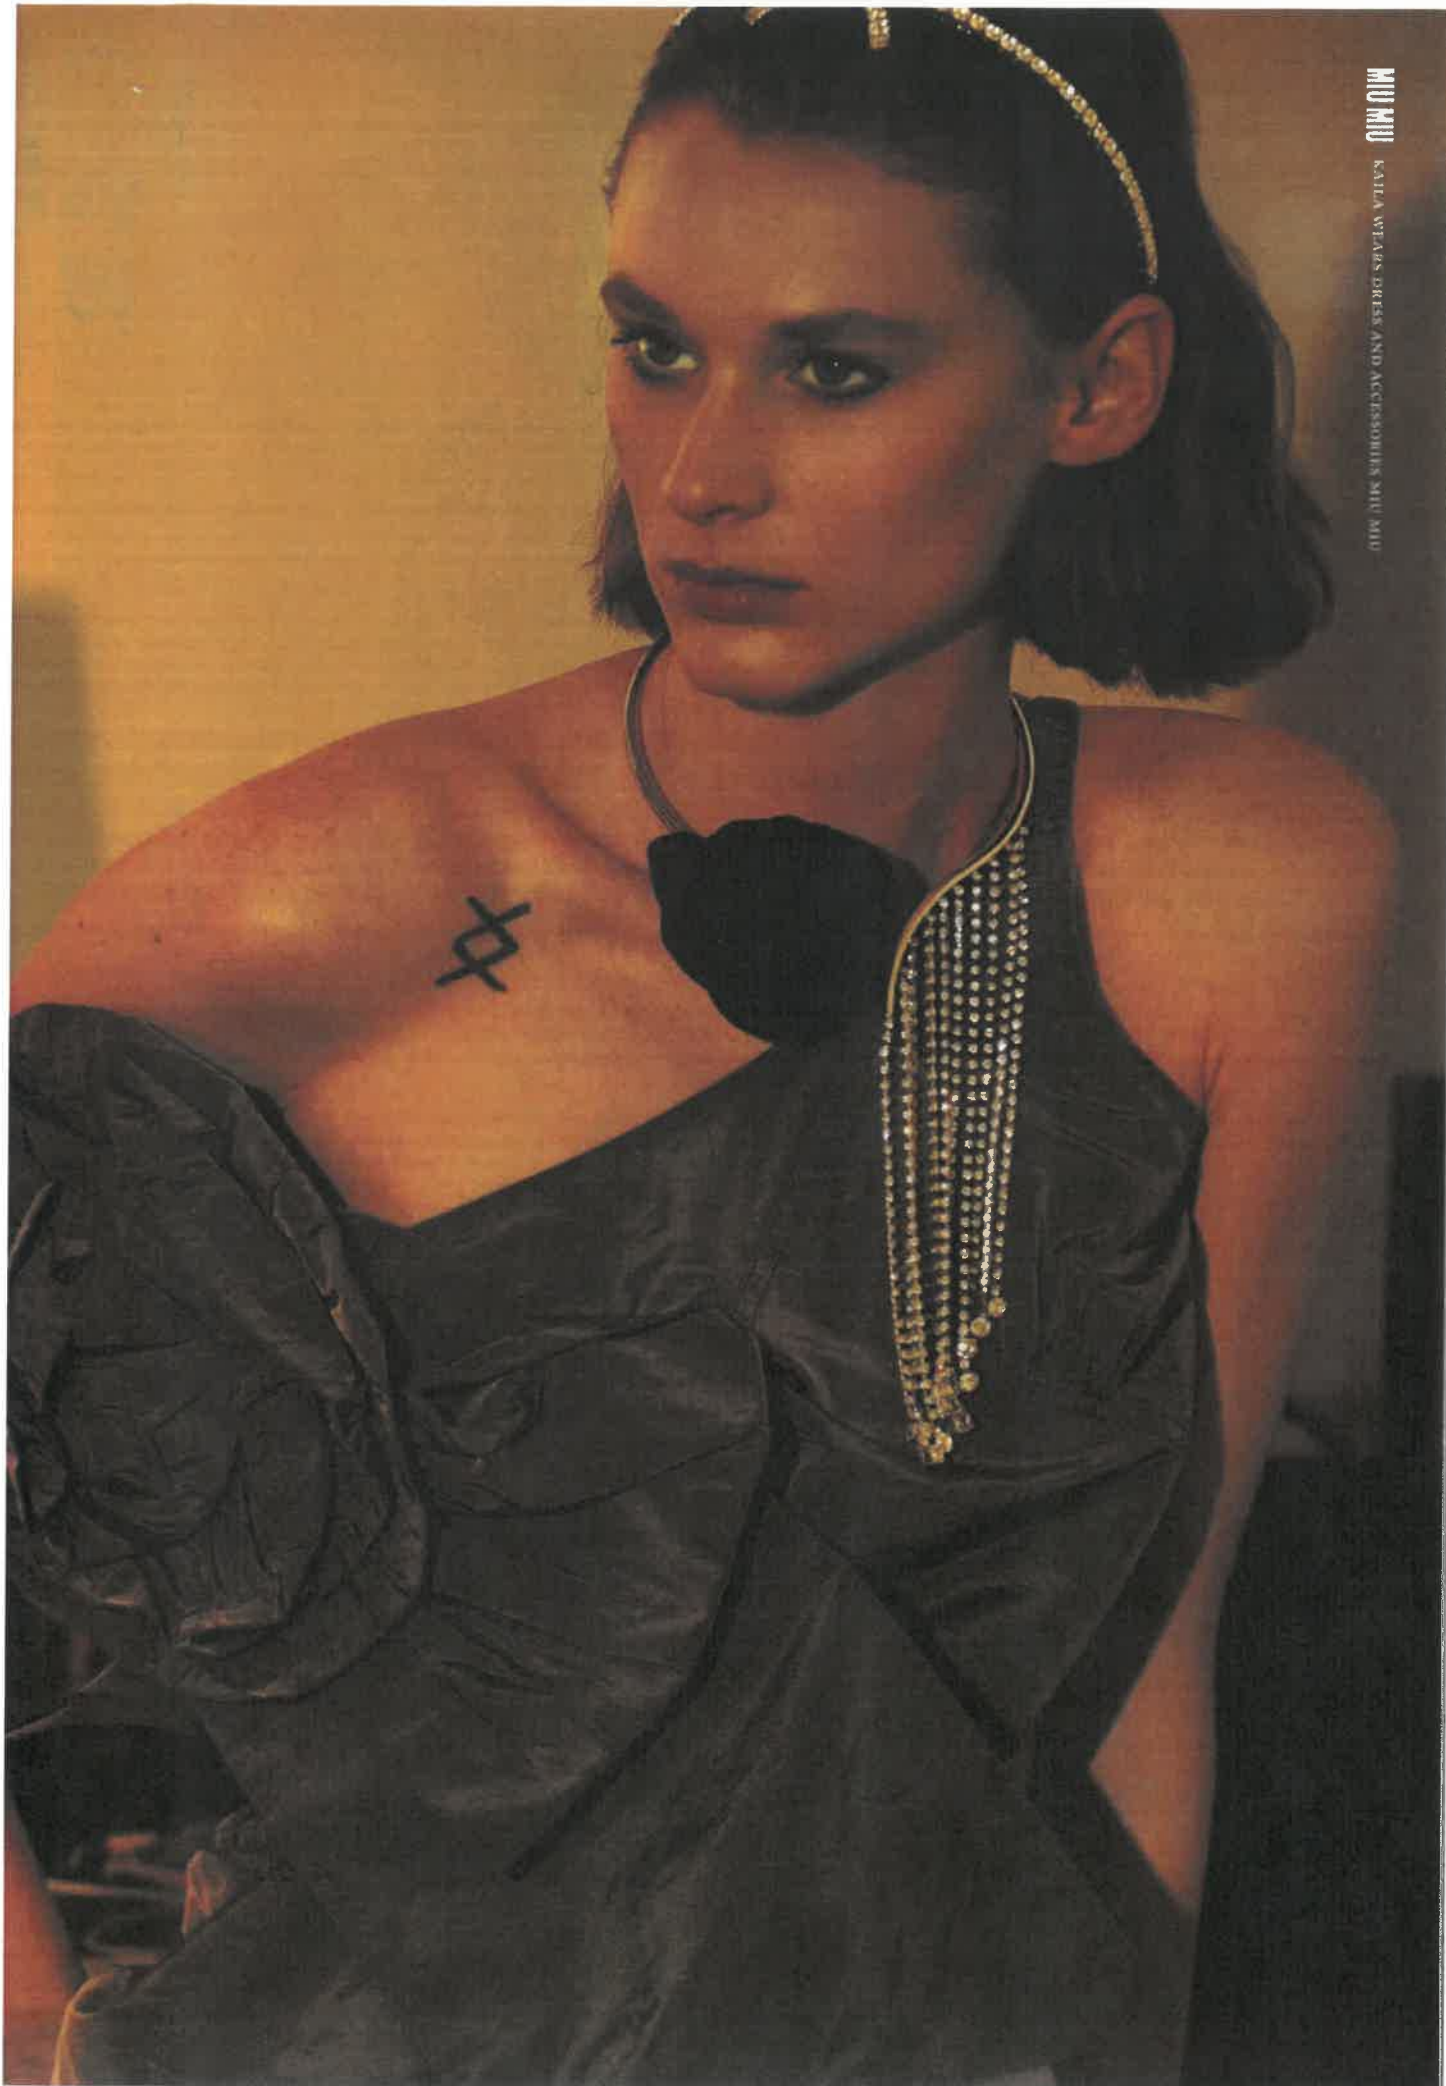

When young girls see Kirby's performance in the soon-to-be-released Fast & Furious spinoff Hobbs & Shaw, she hopes they'll walk out thinking, "Oh, I'm as capable as my brother." The actress wears a lipstick-red Miu Miu top and skirt with a crystal-embellished belt.

Modern fashion has always been obsessed with what comes next. Today, designers' visions are dark, sharp and stripped down, hinting at some shadow of the truth. But not so long ago, the view was far less gloomy.

EMMA NELSON

THIS CHICAGO NATIVE BALANCES HIGH SCHOOL WITH HER FIRST-EVER FILM ROLE OPPOSITE CATE BLANCHETT.

There was a lot riding on Emma Nelson's first ever film take. She'd beat out 500 actors and flown to Greenland to play Cate Blanchett's daughter in Where'd You Go, Bernadette but by the time director Richard Linklater called "Rolling," Nelson was still learning the lingo. "It was like, 'Rolling... Action.' I almost [gave my line] while we were still rolling," she says.

Where'd You Go, Bernadette follows a father and daughter canvassing Antarctica in search of MIA mom Blanchett. The production put Nelson's eighth-grade year in Chicago on hold, and required true grit. "It was cold and desolate," Nelson says. "We were on a boat, and I was always on Dramamine. There was actually a hurricane while filming. Our producer got sick and she broke her leg on the boat. Everybody took care of each other."

But another test was awaiting Nelson upon her return to school. "I was not allowed to tell anybody [about the film], which was difficult," she says. "A lot of my family didn't know. People at school wanted to know where I had been, and I said, 'Oh, I had family stuff.'"

While eighth graders may not be Linklater's usual demographic, Nelson herself is a cinephile beyond her years. "[Richard Linklater's] movies feel like real life, which are the kind I wanted to do," she says. "He really doesn't care about Hollywood—he just does what he loves for the sake of doing it."

The singularity of being stranded on an arctic desert island with two indie idols isn't lost on Nelson. "Cate [told me] working with Rick is so different from other directors because he gives so much creative freedom—even to me," she says. "He always asked what I thought, which I didn't expect, because, being younger, I usually don't get asked; I'm just usually told what to do."

Nelson is waiting until after Bernadette's opening on March 22 to choose her next project, resuming normal-kid life instead. These days she's studying for finals and living the normal-kid life—perhaps the best kind of research when it comes to the Linklater school of true-to-life cinema.

粉色依舊是今年夏季
的熱感色，利落剪裁的
服裝褪去粉紅泡泡，
注入穩重的情感。
蕾紡洋裝與球鞋的混合
搭配最接地氣，彰顯
時下年輕女孩的衣著性格。
長版西裝外套、
粉色襯衫、腰帶、厚底鞋
(All by Miu Miu)
右：不對稱蕾紡洋裝、
球鞋 (Dior)
