PORTADA

JOAN MIR

"Llegas a la cumbre, disfrutas de ese momento, bajas... y nos cuenta Joan Mir. El piloto prefiere referirse a lo que sintió al subirse a lo más alto del cajón en el Mundial de MotoGP, pero está describiendo lo que le produce ascender las montañas de Andorra y reconectar con ese entorno natural que le da paz interior. Por eso en un número que queremos dedicar a la naturaleza, él es el principal protagonista. En la portada viste parka impermeable 2.Moncler 1952, pantalones Prada, botines Church's y gorra Jil Sander.

NOW

021. JOSE CORONADO Y MARIO CASAS

Juntamos a dos grandes iconos de nuestro cine de generaciones distintas. Ambos protagonizan El inocente, lo nuevo de Netflix.

028. JUSTIN THEROUX

Regresamos a La costa de los mosquitos (ahora en formato serie) de la mano de uno de los actores más interesantes del momento.

032. BIRDY

Hablamos con la cantante y compositora que mejor plasma en canciones las emociones que todos vivimos ahora mismo.

034. BOB ODENKIRK

Aparca por un rato Better Call Saul para meterse de lleno en el cine de acción. Nos cuenta como lo ha hecho.

036. GUESS

La creatividad en la moda empieza por la conciencia sostenible.

048. ROLEX EXPLORER

Regresa el mito relojero asociado a la conquista del Everest.

056. LAURENT BALLESTA

El hombre que documenta (con ayuda de Blancpain) el efecto del confinamiento en la biodiversidad del Mediterráneo.

Callum Scott Howells

22, actor

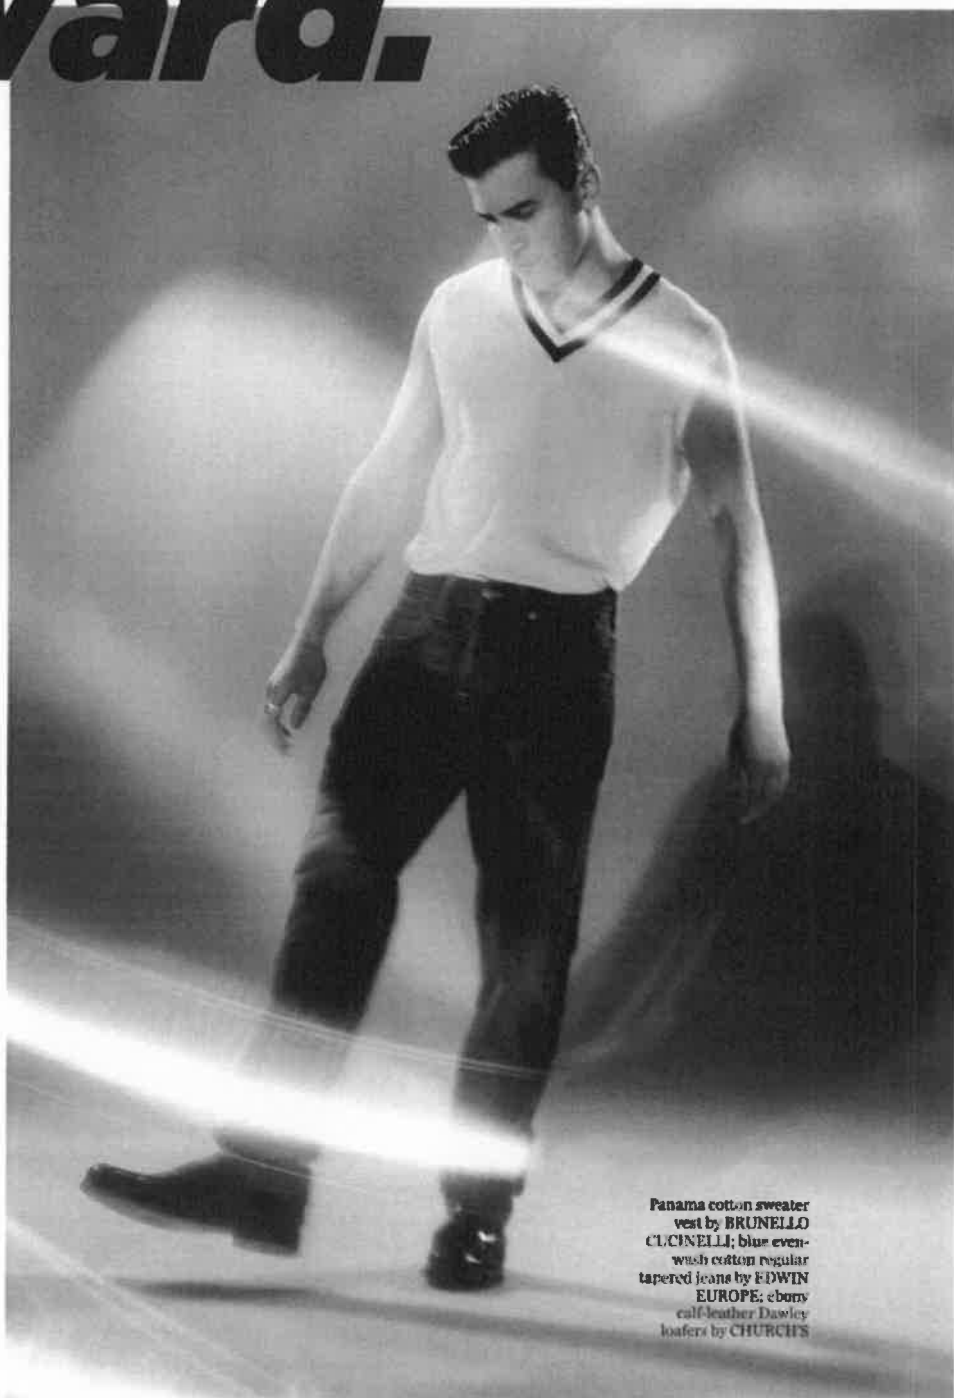

Text DEAN MAYO DAVIES

A couple of weeks after It's A Sin, the tough-to-binge drama of queer liberty and devastation, began airing on TV, one of its most beloved stars, nascent actor Callum Scott Howells, got a phone call. 'I was in my house and Elton called,' Howells says ('Elton' being Elton John). 'I couldn't believe it! He said how terrific he thought the show and our performances were. It really meant the world to hear those words from him, I felt bowled over.'

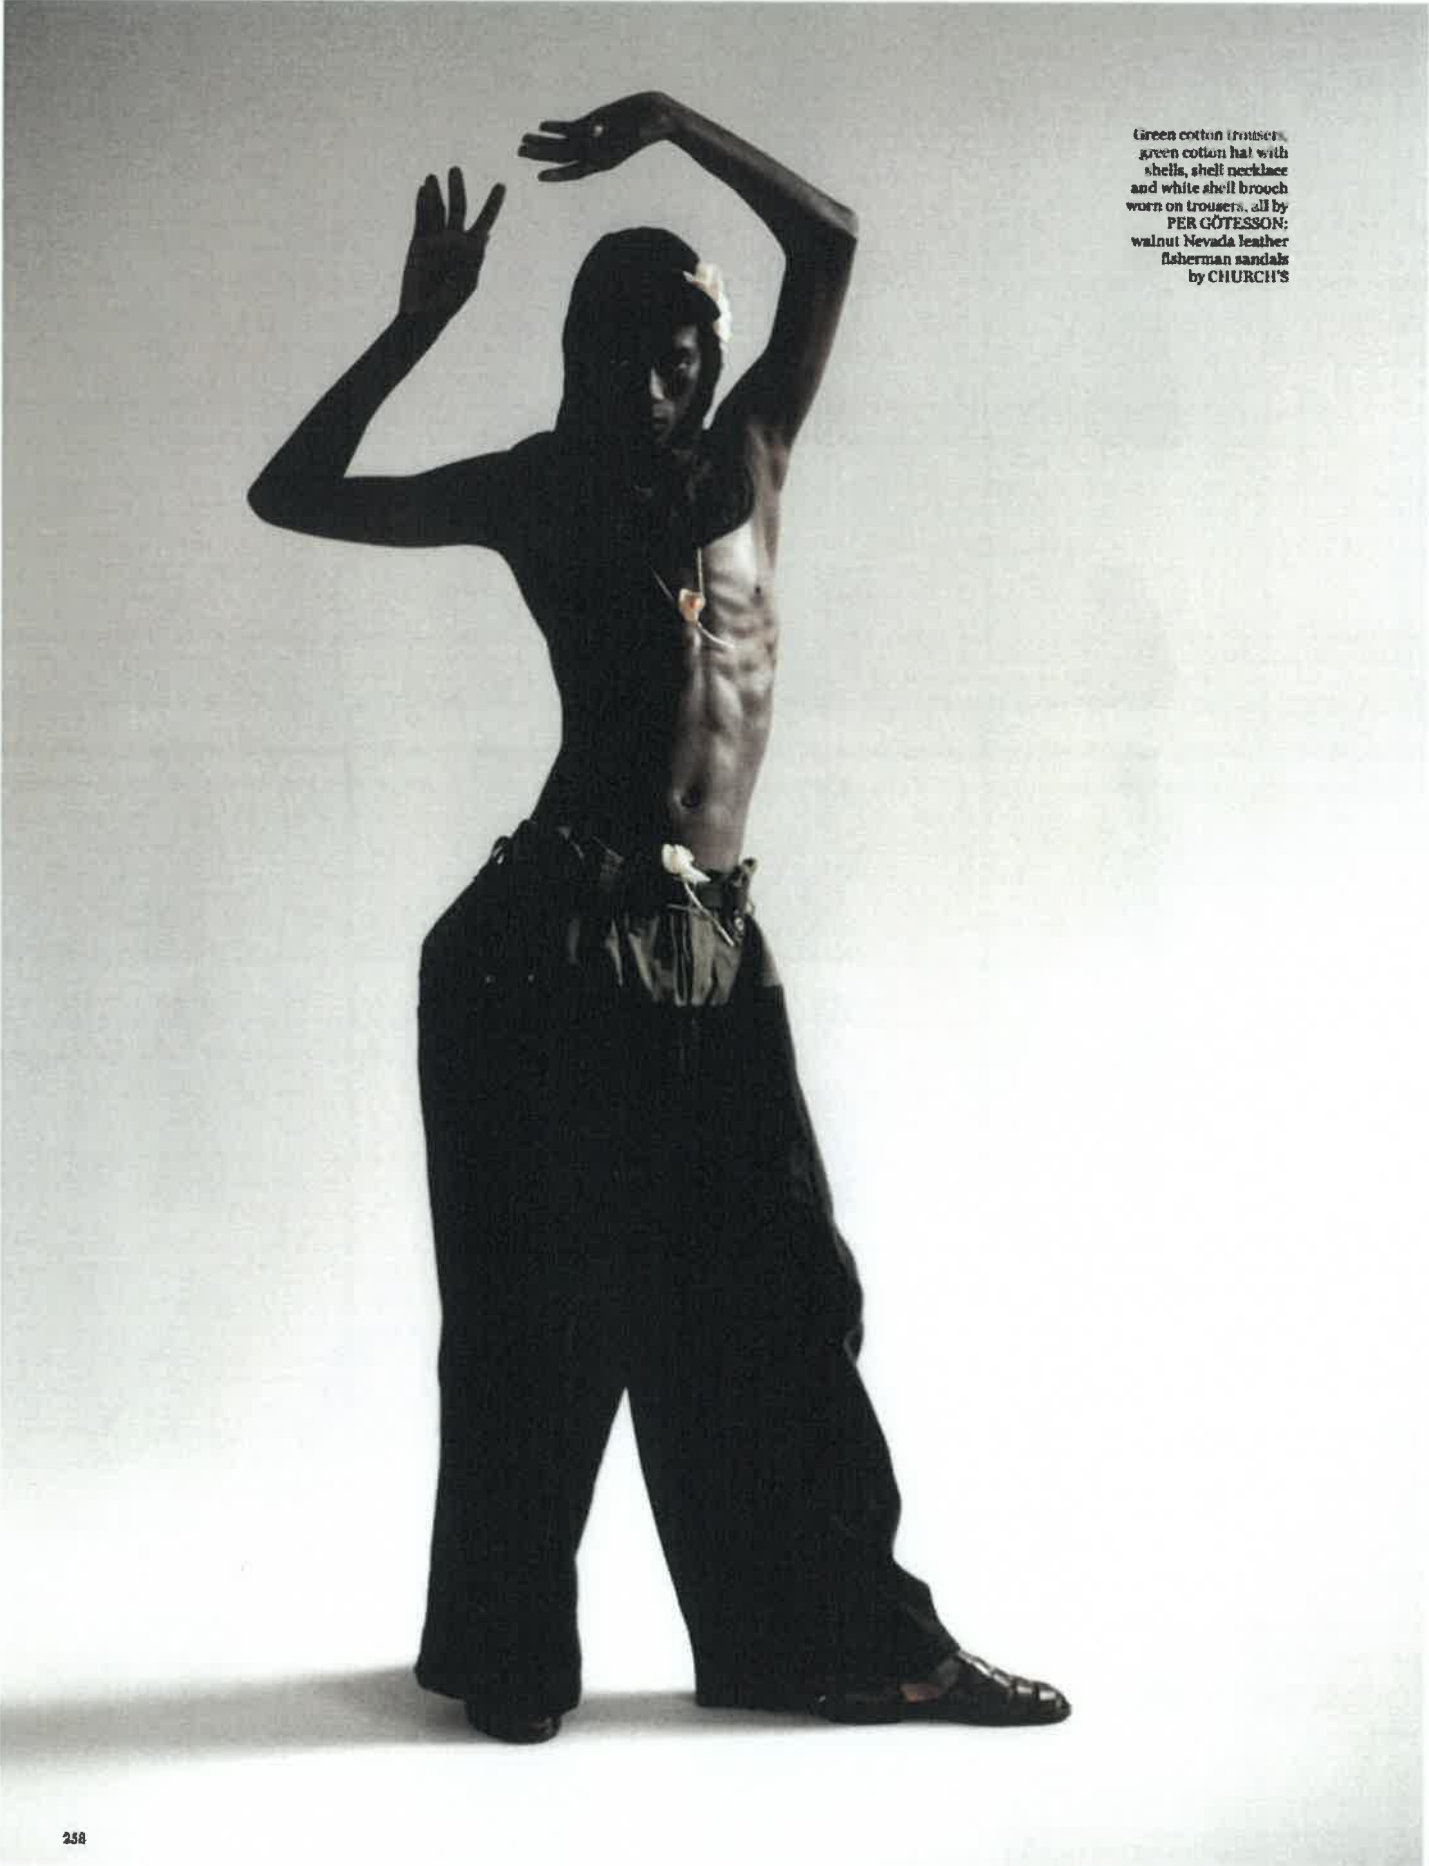

The Rocket Man isn't the only one to express what the show meant to him. Since being broadcast in January on Channel 4, archived to streaming and shown on HBO Max in the US, It's A Sin has unleashed an outpouring of emotion online. Its poised depiction of the AIDS crisis of the Eighties remembers the joy and good times, too, often acerbically (pissing in Margaret Thatcher's coffee, anyone?).

Callum Scott Howells' character, quiet Savile Row apprentice Colin Morris-Jones, is freshly arrived in London from the South Wales valleys. His contribution to the drama, a blindside of epic proportions that shifts the entire landscape of the show, is bracing. 'Colin was snatched away from us before he really got the chance to flourish into a fully formed adult,' says Howells. 'A lot of people from Elton's generation have said that they were a Colin once, and I think that's so lovely that they connected to the character and believed in him. It means a lot to me. I feel really lucky to have played him.'

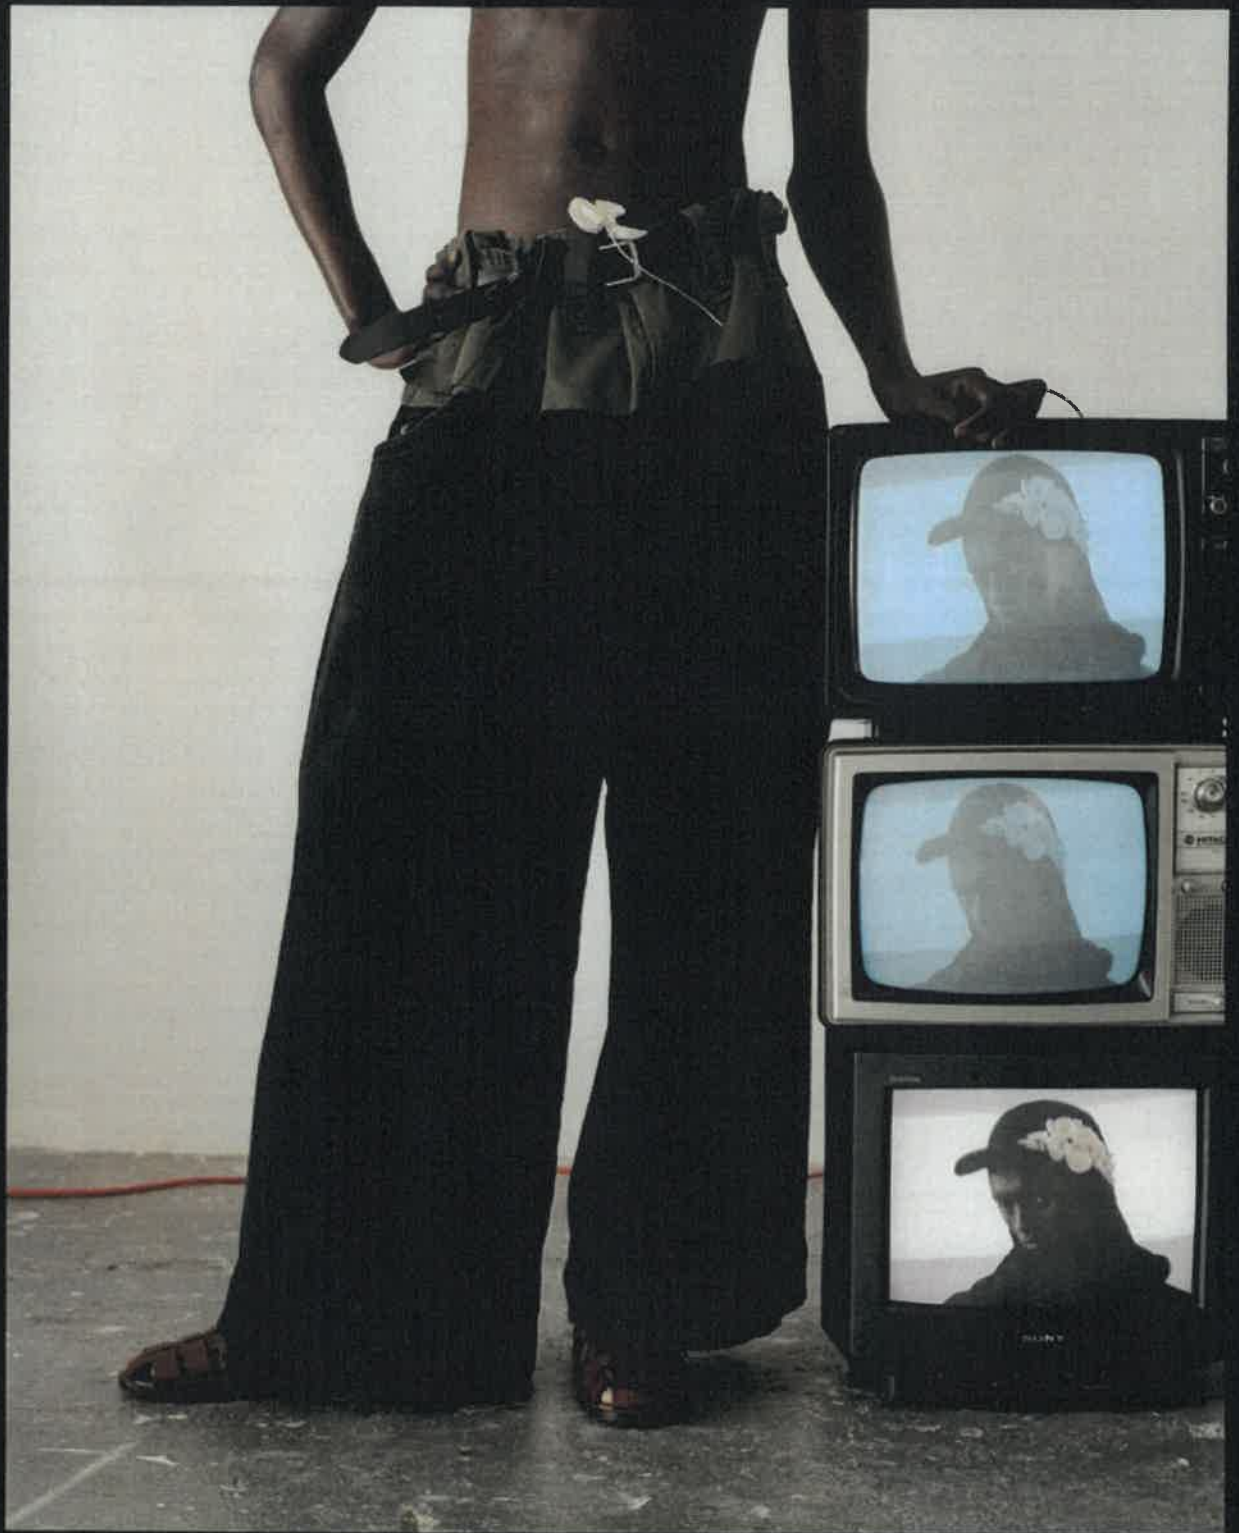

The tenderness felt towards Colin is universal, sweet and introverted as he is, with a grey-and-oatmeal wardrobe that is out of sync with both his youth and the audacity of the time. Looking on at his friends with great affection, relishing their flamboyancy and sense of expression while bathing in their glow, he is entirely without agenda. But while Colin is a fictional character,
